Center News

Due to being closed for in person services for the majority of September, we will continue working on learning the routines and schedule that we use during our school day.

This month, the students will also begin working on their fine motor skills. Some examples of the activities that they will be doing to work their small muscles are as follows: weaving, beading, and using tweezers to pick up other objects. It is important to get those muscles strong in order to learn to draw and write. These are activities that you could do at home with items found within your environment. Try letting your child explore with kitchen tongs to see what they can pick up with them!

Important Information

Please practice covering coughs, using tissues, and washing hands with your child. We teach them to cough into the bend of their elbow because coughing in our hands causes them to be covered in our germs, which then can be easily spread throughout the classroom.

Parent Event

Please join us for our Parent Meeting on Wednesday, October 12th at 4:30 p.m.! Snack and quiet activities for the children will be provided. Our OU Mental Health Consultant, Madeline DeShazer, will give a presentation on Home Strategies to Build Resilience and Reducing Stress.
